New License Needed for has Wallack's Farewell-Frohman Tells Plans.

The farewell performance of Granwille Barker and his company to-night at Wallack's Theatre has cost Mr. Barker precisely $250 more than he had bargained for. The license of Wallack's ran out last night, and in order to renew it for a single day the management was forced to pay the city half the amount required for a full year's term. Though the Bureau of C. O'Donnell Iselin for their daughter, Miss Adrienne Iselin. Licenses was willing to do anything it could to accommodate the theatre, it had no jurisdiction, and so Charles Burnham was forced to pay $250 yesterday afternoon in order that Wallack's might give its farewell performance to-night. Following the performance Mr. Burnham has arranged an interesting series of speeches. Granville Barker will speak, followed by Augustus Thomas. Miss Rose Coghlan, first leading woman on the present Wallack stage, will read an epilogue written expressly for her by Oliver Herford. On May 5 the furnishings will be sold at auction.
